Criterion for listing (E) Aesthetic

This Old English style house was built around 1936 for contracting company manager Robert S. Harry in the popular Glen Lyon Gardens Estate at Ashgrove. Built during Ashgrove's residential building boom, this picturesque house makes a fine contribution to the surrounding streetscape and is a good example of this style of interwar domestic architecture.

Aesthetic

CRITERION E

The place is important because of its aesthetic significance as it is a good example of an Interwar domestic residence executed in the Old English style featuring pleasing elements such as contrasting face brick, shingle and rendered walls, extensive use of leadlight glass, and a half-timbered upper storey.
