Criterion for listing

(A) Historical; (D) Representative; (E) Aesthetic

This picturesque timber cottage was built by the early 1870s when it was leased to members of the Bourne family. It was known as 'Edenglassie' from the late 1870s when leased and then owned by members of the Coutts family – one of Brisbane's early squatting families. In 1881 the property was purchased by Wilhelmina Coutts, widow of early Scottish colonist Donald Coutts of Bulimba House fame. The property remained in the Coutts family until 1920 when it was transferred to Wilhelmina Jane Payne and has been owned by the Payne family since then. 'Edenglassie', which takes its name from the original name given to Brisbane in 1824, was built on Donald Tusch Mackenzie's 1860s subdivision clustered around Bowen Street and Bowen Terrace. The dwelling's location near the street frontage reflected the early layout of blocks to maximise rear space for outbuildings and stables.

Statement of significance

Relevant assessment criteria

This is a place of local heritage significance and meets one or more of the local heritage criteria under the Heritage planning scheme policy of the Brisbane City Plan 2014. It is significant because:

Historical

CRITERION A

The place is important in demonstrating the evolution or pattern of the city's or local area's history as it exemplifies the early pattern of residential development on the north-western side of Brunswick Street.

Representative

CRITERION D

The place is important in demonstrating the principal characteristics of a particular class or classes of cultural places as a fine example of a timber cottage with high-pitched transverse gable roof dating from the colonial period.

The place is important because of its aesthetic significance as the cottage has a pleasing symmetry and dominant roof form, making it a distinctive landmark overlooking Wilson Outlook, near Petrie Bight.
